

More Than Just Good Electricians!

As a builder, what's your major challenge with electrical companies? Are they too slow? Unreliable? Expensive?

At Taylored Electrical Solutions we know it's not enough to be good at connecting wires. That in our business, service is everything. So, we are not only the best electricians you could hope to work with, but we give builders and home owners nothing less than the very highest level of service.

Who Are Taylored Electrical Solutions?

Taylored Electrical Solutions is the brainchild of Chris Taylor who seems to have electricity running through his veins!

He has had a passion for all things electrical since he was a child. During his apprenticeship, Chris was fortunate to work on some of Auckland's best homes and made the most of every opportunity, learning all he could from home owners and builders about what separates ordinary tradesmen from the kind of people they prefer to deal with.

So he set about not only being the best electrician he could be, but running the kind of business that stood out by providing truly excellent service.

How Taylored Electrical Solutions achieves that:

Every builder and every job is unique and Taylored Electrical Solutions operates in a flexible way to suit the needs of both.

You can be confident that:
